Dr Ignatius and Jacqueline are ordinary people from a typical middle-class family. Dr Ignatius was working as a medical doctor and Jacqueline was an executive at a multinational corporation when they were introduced to Amway. Exactly 24 months after starting their business, they retired from their jobs. Dr Ignatius was 31 and Jacqueline was 27 when they became financially free. This uncommon freedom enabled them to be full-time parents to their growing boys and able to enjoy their time together as a family. Dr Ignatius and Jacqueline have seen many people's lives change for the better and helped many others with health issues. Seeing their health improve helps boost their confidence in Amway and its products. They have travelled to so many cities and countries, which Dr Ignatius would not have the chance to visit as a busy medical doctor. In 2015, they qualified as Diamond. They continue to grow their Amway business qualified for Diamond the following year and achieved another breakthrough in 2019 by qualifying for GAR Executive Diamond. Through Amway, they have gained financial independence and freedom of time.
